

Hello, Thank you for your support this past month. I decided to do my thank you's via e-mail this month. However, you will still be getting your receipt snail mail as usual. For those of you not on bill pay, you will also be getting an envelope for the next donation. Unfortunately the envelopes here in India are not pre-gummed so you have to tape it shut, or glue it.

Don has been teaching for Angam at the Biblical Theological College and Seminary. He also takes the chapel time every other week.

Sharing in chapel at BTCS

Sharing in chapel at ACPL

I was able to share in chapel two days in a row at the Academy for Church Planting and Leadership (ACPL)

We also continue our ministry with Radiance, the house church group.

Grace's parents arrived in the US this past week. Phil and Grace expect a baby boy in a couple of weeks (or less). It is nice her parents can be there at this time. Of course we won't be there when the baby is born, but we will arrive shortly after.

I also have been getting quite a bit of dental work done. I went for a cleaning and the resulting check up revealed I needed three root canals, four caps, 5 fillings redone, and some gum line fill ins. I am thankful for a good dentist here and the cost is much much cheaper than in the US!

This is Hindu festival season and there is one festival after another it seems to various Hindu gods. It is a continual reminder of the darkness that abounds.

Thank you for your part in this ministry, without your regular support we could not be here making a difference.
